FRIDAY, JANUARY 18, 1901.

It is very probable that Governor Stanley could give a suitable answer to the pertinent inquiry, "What's the matter with Kansas?"

Colonel Guffey failed to capture that Pennsylvania Senatorial toga, but he landed something equally as productive in that big Texas oil gusher.

In its decision in the Neely case, defining Cuba as being an independent country, the Supreme Court has emphasized the policy which this country has maintained all along.

Germany has just ordered for the use of her army three thousand tons of sauer kraut from Philadelphia. It is said that the American product is equal if not superior to that produced in the Fatherland.

It is charged that the gamblers of New York pay Tammany five million dollars per year for protection. Is it any wonder that Dick Croker can maintain a palace in England and invest in $5000 pups?

John Wanamaker has come to the conclusion that there is more satisfaction in teaching a Philadelphia Sunday School class than there is in fighting "Old Man" Quay for the control of Pennsylvania politics.

After the many exciting experiences he is enjoying among mountain lions, cinnamon bears and other varmints, it is safe to assume that presiding over the senate Senate will prove a very sleepy job for Col. Roosevelt.

King Boreas came along Thursday and as a result people are seen scurrying to and fro in lively fashion, instead of walking leisurely along, without heavy coats and wraps, as has been the condition almost all winter.

Parkersburg believes in spice and plenty of it. This little village across the river has had its councilmanic fist-fuff encounters, its police scandals and its smallpox visitations; and now it is worked up to a frenzy of excitement over a genuine mad dog scare.

The Democracy of Ohio is agitating itself over the matter of a candidate for Governor and the fight in some sections is already waxing warm. But what's the use of nominating anybody? It is universally known that George K. Nash will succeed himself as Ohio's chief executive.

A Disappointed Couple.

Fred Campbell and Miss Mary Robinson, with Miss Robinson's sister and other friends, came to this city Thursday from Salama, W. Va., to get a marriage license for the first two named young people. However, as Mr. Campbell was but twenty years of age the license could not be obtained without his parent's consent. The young couple left with heavy hearts—"two hearts that beat as one." They stated that they would try to get a license at Parkersburg.

Died in Texas.

Judge Cutler received a telegram last evening from Vesta A. Fetter at San Antonio, Texas, announcing the sudden death yesterday of her mother, Mrs. Prussia A. Olney, widow of the late P. J. Olney, of this city. Mrs. Olney's home was on the Pike near the glass plant. She went to San Antonio last July to live with her daughter, Mrs. Fetter. She had a stroke of paralysis which caused her death. Two sons and five daughters survive her. Her husband died about 1883. Her maiden name was Henry.

BRICKS SINK

25,000 of Them Go to the Bottom of the Ohio.

The channel at the head of Kerr's island is obstructed with a large load of brick which should be now at St. Marys, but are at present lying at the bottom of the Ohio. The barge which contained 25,000 brick from the Acme brick plant, sprung a leak when opposite the head of Kerr's island. The pumps were set at work and an effort was made to exhaust the water which was pouring into the barge, but the great weight of the cargo together with the many means of ingress for the water rendered these efforts vain, the barge sinking in deep water. The steamer Baxter had the tow in charge.

On the Desk of Senator Quay.

GREATEST DEMONSTRATION

In the History of the United States Senate.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—As a demonstration in honor of a single Senator, and as an elaborate and beautiful floral spectacle, the return of Mr. Quay, of Pennsylvania, to the Senate today was the most unique in the history of that body. Within the memory of the oldest Senators nothing approaching today's scene was ever witnessed in the Senate on a similar occasion.

Mr. Quay's friends from Pennsylvania came to Washington by hundreds to witness his induction into office and brought with them floral offerings literally by carloads. While Mr. Quay's desk and the desks of other Senators adjoining his were banked with costly and beautiful floral pieces, scarcely an appreciable quantity of the profusion of flowers his friends provided could be displayed in the Senate chamber.

The demonstration accorded to Mr. Quay when he entered the Senate chamber amounted to an ovation. While he was receiving the congratulations of his friends on the floor, the hundreds of persons who thronged the galleries applauded him tumultuously. That Mr. Quay appreciated this distinctly personal tribute was quite evident. He glanced smilingly around the galleries, nodding familiarly to the friends whom he recognized. The brief ceremony of administering to him the oath of office passed without special feature, the President pro tem having warned those in the galleries that it was against the rules for spectators to express their approval or disapproval.

During the day's session the army reorganization bill was discussed by Mr. Money, Dem., Mississippi; Mr. McComas, Rep., Maryland, and Mr. Bate, Dem., Texas. The Mississippi Senator devoted some attention to the practice of hazing at West Point, which he bitterly denounced.

MEN'S BANQUET

Under the Auspices of Ladies Aid Society Largely Attended.

Probably no better illustration of the oft repeated quotation, almost coincident with the beginning of philosophy and entirely in harmony with the deepest research of both scientists and psychologists, that man is by nature a social animal, could have been discovered than was given Thursday evening at the First Baptist church of this city. Famed, and justly so, for the hearty welcome which they accord both to the stranger within their walls and the attendant of their own church, the members of the Baptist church yet surpassed their well merited reputation by the completeness and general social perfection of the banquet which was given to the male members of the congregation and their gentlemen friends by the Ladies Aid Society.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the audience room of the church began to fill rapidly with those, who either by virtue of their affiliation with the church or by the influence of friends who were on the membership roll, had been induced to gather within the old building for the purpose of spending the evening in pleasant social intercourse. After a due time had elapsed to give all present an opportunity to greet the one the other, the assembled company repaired to the Sunday School room, where at the long tables which filled the room covers had been laid for approximately 100 guests. The festal boards, covered with snowy linen and glistening with china and silverware, were lighted by the soft radiance of numerous candles which upon an assemblage imbued with kindly feelings and good cheer. With celerity and dispatch the banqueters were served with toothsome viands of variety and abundance by the members of the Ladies Aid Society.

At the conclusion of the gustatory part of the banquet, Mr. S. J. Hathaway, the toastmaster of the evening, assumed direction of the intellectual element of the feast. Mr. Hathaway's remarks when introducing each speaker were especially happy and appropriate and evoked much merriment from his auditors. The toasts which were responded to comprised the following speakers and subjects:

Dr. E. Sloan, "The Church for Men." D. H. Thomas "The Church and the Young Man."

Mr. L. P. Hill, "The Church and the Boys."

Judge Rood, "The Old Men and the Church."

W. A. Decker, "The Church and the Tollers."

C. H. Turner "The Business Men and the Church."

In an informal manner Rev. Drs. L. Kirtley and Geo. R. Gear and L. James Shoemaker bade the stranger and all those attending the church a hearty welcome and extended an invitation to attend the regular church services.

The various professions and avocations of life were represented in the gathering and the representatives of all these branches of industry whose names are indicated on the program, treated the themes which they were assigned to discuss in a manner which showed both sincerity of conviction and earnestness of purpose.

After singing the doxology, the assemblage broke up and "good nights" were said by the men who were both better and stronger for the evening's associations.

Officers Elected.

At a meeting of the Marietta Ice and Storage Co. Thursday morning organization was effected for the ensuing business year as follows:

M. G. Knox, President; H. D. Knox, Treasurer; C. Walter Knox, Secretary and General Manager.

Work was promptly begun Thursday morning in breaking ground and putting the site of the location in shape for the building which will ensue as soon as the weather will permit.

The new company will conduct a cold storage department in connection with their ice manufactory. They will have 40,000 available cubic feet of room in the cold storage department and a temperature of 26 degrees will be preserved. The contracts for the machinery and the erection of the buildings have been let and the work will be so hastened as to enable the company to open their plant by the middle of March.

Al Rausch's Trial.

Al Rausch's hearing on the charge of lunacy was completed Thursday in Probate court, Judge W. H. Leeper's testimony was the only one that had not been heard. Judge Nixon reserved his decision until this morning at 9 o'clock.

A COUGH

Is a little thing when it begins. This is the time to stop it. The longer you put it off the harder it is to cure.

The longer it lasts, the more serious it becomes. Let it run on, and there's no telling what the end will be.

The case of consumption was a little cold once. Black Cough Syrup will stop any cough when it first begins.

It will stop most all coughs after they get bad. But the best way is to take it at the first sign of a cold.
